

It is my opinion that the 60 meter shortwave band should be opened for amateur radio access. There are few "open" possible frequencies in the 40 meter band due to commercial broadcasters. The 60 meter band would give greater range in time and distance than the 80 meter with less interference. For domestic communications, it seems like 60 meter would be a dependable frequency band. A good idea.

Josh Martin KD5MLH